How One Woman Got to Know Jesus in a North Korean Prison Jan Vermeer

Kim Yong Sook's life started in 1951 in a Chinese village as the second child of a poor Korean family. It nearly ended 46 years later in a North Korean prison cell. She firmly believes she thanks her life to a remarkable prayer. Her extraordinary life story is tragic and triumphant in one. Her family was deported because her father and grandfather belonged to a Christian group. She resented the Christians for destroying her family's future. Now she confesses that God has always watched over her. "Still, I wish I would be able to relive my life and this time be able to actually love the people around me."
